YOUR LOGO

Occupational health care and physical rehabilitation are becoming increasingly important for companies and healthcare institutions. Improving fitness levels offers significant benefits, especially to society. Many companies encourage their employees to keep fit, and health and accident insurance companies are interested in effective rehabilitation measures using high-quality fitness equipment at low cost.

We have significantly expanded our range and increased its flexibility (shorter delivery times) to offer you a complete portfolio of products.

Even in small quantities, we can manufacture fitness bands, print them, and package them in a customizable padded envelope. To complement this offer and ensure active use of the fitness equipment, a brochure containing 17 exercise instructions can be included. The cover can feature your logo, or you can design it according to your own preferences. If needed, production can also be completed very quickly using our express delivery option (4 weeks, depending on the print run).

This allows your company to be clearly recognized as the sender of a fitness product that ideally supports efforts to improve physical fitness—also in the interest of the company.

We would be happy to provide you with a customized quote for this product.
